Facts and Figures

A total of 39 different teams have represented Wisconsin in sanctioned American Legion Baseball national competition since the Badger State sent its first team in 1928, including 17 different teams since 2005. Excluding hosts, Wisconsin has had two qualifiers for the national tournament from 1996-98, 2006-07 and 2010-present due to its large number of total teams.

- 11 – Appleton
- 9 – Beloit, Plover
- 8 – De Pere

The current eight-regional format was adopted by American Legion Baseball in 1960. From 1943 to 1959, 12 four-team regionals were held with the winners advancing to four three-team sectionals. The sectional champions would advance to the American Legion World Series. From 1926 to 1942, district/regional champions would advance to a regional, with the two regional champions meeting in a best-of-five series for the national championship. Hosts did not receive an automatic berth into any national tournaments until about 1970.

Regional Champions Since 1960

- Janesville – 1989
 - West Allis – 1962
- Janesville and West Allis are the only two Wisconsin teams to reach the American Legion World Series.
